OVERVIEW

Jasmine is a paralegal in the firm's Consumer Financial Services practice, where she supports both regulatory and litigation matters. She joined the firm as a legal practice assistant and grew into her current role. Most recently, she served as legal operations manager for a firm client, where she managed outside counsel relationships, day-to-day legal operations, budgets, and matter workflows from an in-house perspective.

With nearly nine years of experience in legal operations and financial services, Jasmine brings strong coordination, financial management, and process skills. Her time on the client side gives her insight into how legal departments work, which helps her anticipate client needs. Her background also gives her a practical understanding of the consumer financial services industry.

Jasmine received her bachelor's degree from Drexel University.
