

2023 Privacy Year in Review

WRITTEN BY

James Koenig | Ronald Raether, Jr. | Ashley L. Taylor, Jr. | Stephen C. Piepgrass | Joshua D. Davey | Kim Phan | Angelo A. Stio, III | Samuel E. "Gene" Fishel | Laura Hamady | Joel M. Lutz | Zie Alere | Karla Ballesteros | Rachel Buck Hodges | Carson A. Cox | Natasha E. Halloran | Natalia A. Jacobo | Marnishia Jernigan | Namrata Kang | Susie Lloyd | McKayla Riter | Trey Smith | Edgar Vargas | Daniel Waltz | Privacy + Security Advisors | Robyn W. Lin | Alexandria Pritchett | Whitney L. Shephard

Troutman Pepper's 2023 Privacy Year in Review is a comprehensive analysis of the year's key developments in privacy, security, and artificial intelligence and offers practical advice for companies navigating the bewildering number of virtual threats and technological advancements. This guide to global trends, risks, best practices, and detailed case studies is a collaborative effort of our Privacy + Cyber and Regulatory Investigations, Strategy + Enforcement (RISE) teams that aims to serve as a vital resource to help companies address current challenges and prepare for future ones.

To access the report directly, please click here.

Mac McCullough, senior privacy and security advisor at Troutman Pepper, also contributed to this publication.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Artificial Intelligence
- Privacy + Cyber
- Regulatory Investigations, Strategy + Enforcement
- State Attorneys General