February 25 – 26, 2025

Formerly known as the Petroleum Marketing Attorneys' Meeting, we're pleased to reintroduce this fully recharged conference for energy marketing attorneys focused on issues affecting refiners, wholesalers/distributors, and retailers—from major-brand integrated oil companies, to independent refiners, to all varieties of national, regional, and local fuel distributors and marketers.

Day 1 will kick off with an in-house counsel roundtable (closed session) designed to inform in-house counsel attendees on the most pressing legal topics impacting the industry. The roundtable will be followed by a Welcome Reception where all attendees can reconnect with familiar faces as well as establish valuable new relationships. Chris Young, a Partner at Troutman Pepper Locke, will participate in an Antitrust panel where he will discuss threats from the FTC, competition, pricing & franchising.

On Day 2, presenters will explore a range of issues including recent federal antitrust and competition developments, the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act and state relationship laws, managing and mitigating nuclear jury verdict risks and public relation events, hot considerations and developments in retail marketing, an ethics session, and more. Brad Weber, a Partner at Troutman Pepper Locke, will also lead a presentation on Antitrust & Competition: Non-Competes.

We hope you can join us for powerful programming and valuable networking opportunities.
