About the National Hydropower Association (NHA)

Founded in 1983, the NHA is a Washington, D.C.-based nonprofit trade association dedicated to promoting clean, reliable, and affordable hydropower and marine energy. It represents more than 300 companies — including public and investor-owned utilities, independent power producers, equipment manufacturers, and consultants — whose members collectively own and operate approximately 85% of U.S. waterpower generating capacity. Its core activities include policy advocacy, regulatory engagement, education, and industry collaboration.
