

Press Coverage | November 12, 2021

3rd Circ. Risks Twisting COVID Immunity Law Into Pretzel

RELATED PROFESSIONALS

Jan P. Levine | Callan G. Stein

Troutman Pepper Partners Jan Levine and Cal Stein were quoted in the November 12, 2021 Law360 article titled, “3rd Circ. Risks Twisting COVID Immunity Law Into Pretzel.”

With state courts deciding the “covered person” and “countermeasure” issues, there’s a risk of disparate rulings and “not having a consistent uniform body of law the way you may have if it’s being done by federal courts,” said Callan G. Stein of Troutman Pepper, who represents health care providers and facilities.

Jan P. Levine, also of Troutman Pepper, echoed the point, saying inconsistent court opinions and a lack of clarity in the law is always worrisome.

“When you’re advising a client as to the law and to have the law not clear, it’s always a problem,” said Levine, who also represents health care industry clients.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Health Care + Life Sciences