Zach Torres-Fowler, a partner with Troutman Pepper, was quoted in the January 2, 2023 Law360 article, "6 International Arbitration Cases to Watch in 2023."

"If you talk to practitioners in the Eleventh Circuit, they like the current precedent … because it really is consistent with more common international arbitration practice," said Troutman Pepper Hamilton Sanders LLP partner R. Zachary Torres-Fowler.

"If the Eleventh Circuit does what some expect it to do … it basically forces everyone who practices [in the circuit], who are looking at these nondomestic arbitration awards, to say we have a totally different law to apply here," Torres-Fowler said. "Even if it accomplishes basically the same thing, it's a different law."
