

Press Coverage | July 6, 2026

After Tense Terms, Hints of High Court Harmony With Circuits

RELATED PROFESSIONALS

Misha Tseytlin

Misha Tseytlin, a partner in Troutman Pepper Locke's Appellate + Supreme Court Practice Group, was quoted in the July 6, 2026, Law360 article, "After Tense Terms, Hints of High Court Harmony With Circuits."

"It feels like it's true — that there is not as much variation between the circuits as it seemed like there was last year," Misha Tseytlin, appellate head at Troutman Pepper Locke LLP, told Law360.

...

Troutman's Tseytlin, who clerked for now-retired Justice Anthony Kennedy, put it this way: "The fact that you have a more even distribution among the circuits, and that you don't have a particular area of law or particular circuits being reversed repeatedly by the U.S. Supreme Court, shows that the Supreme Court is effectively accomplishing one of its principal functions: to have a more uniform enforcement of federal law and the U.S. Constitution throughout the United States."

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Appellate + Supreme Court