James Stevens, a partner with Troutman Pepper's Financial Services Practice Group, is quoted in the Georgia Trend article, "Banking on the Future."

"Despite virtually all banks considering how they serve their customers' needs related to the holding, trading and creation of crypto assets, the regulatory environment applicable to digital assets remains uncertain," says James Stevens, partner at Troutman Pepper law firm. "There is no uniformity and very limited regulatory guidance regarding permissible crypto activities for banks."
