Jay Dubow, a co-leader of Troutman Pepper Locke's Securities Investigations + Enforcement Practice Group, will be speaking at the American Bar Association's Business Law Section Fall Meeting on September 18 – 20, 2025 at the Sheraton Centre Toronto. His panel, titled "Changing Priorities in SEC Enforcement Policy: Impacts on Securities Class Action Litigation, Public Companies, and Officers and Directors," will take place on September 19 at 4:00 p.m. ET.

As the Securities and Exchange Commission refocuses its enforcement priorities, courts and private litigants are increasingly stepping into the breach. This panel brings together a federal judge, leading securities litigators, and compliance experts to explore the evolving balance between public enforcement and private accountability. Panelists will discuss defense strategies, investor recovery, and the judiciary's expanding role—offering insights into how shifting enforcement priorities are reshaping securities litigation, and highlighting where the next wave of class and derivative actions may arise.
