Troutman Pepper Partner Mike Baughman was quoted in the USA Today article, “College Campuses Drove Major COVID-19 Outbreaks. Now, Will They Require the Vaccine?”

“There are so many hurdles in place before we have this vaccine out there,” said Michael Baughman, a Philadelphia lawyer who works with colleges on compliance with state and federal laws. “Even if colleges wanted to mandate it, we’re not going to have the supply to do that until at least the next (2021-22) academic year.”

“States might pass laws at some point that do mandate it – but we’re a long way from that even being practical.”
