The FTC is moving faster, and across more fronts, than at any point in recent memory: billion-dollar subscription settlements, sweeping children's privacy rules, first-of-their-kind actions on AI and location data, and a rapidly shifting merger-review landscape. And with state attorneys general increasingly running parallel enforcement actions alongside the Commission, the stakes have never been higher.

Troutman Pepper Locke sees FTC enforcement from the inside, with a team at the forefront of Commission matters and a nationally ranked State Attorneys General practice for the state actions that increasingly follow.
