

Articles + Publications | August 29, 2022

Cyber Breaches Pose Risk of SEC Enforcement Actions, Derivative Suits to Public Companies

WRITTEN BY

Jay A. Dubow | Robert L. Hickok | Thomas H. Cordova

In addition to potential private lawsuits and state attorney general investigations, public companies must be prepared for potential investigations by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and potential securities litigation, including class actions and stockholder derivative suits.

Read the full article on The Legal Intelligencer.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Privacy + Cyber
- Securities Investigations + Enforcement
- White Collar Litigation + Investigations