In this podcast episode, Brooke Conkle and Chris Capurso are joined by esteemed senior practitioner Alan Wingfield to discuss the National Automobile Dealer Association's (NADA) challenge to the Federal Trade Commission's (FTC) CARS Rule. The conversation centers around the recent oral arguments held by the Fifth Circuit on October 9, involving both the NADA and the Texas Automobile Dealers Association (TADA). The discussion aims to provide insights into the origins and implications of the CARS Rule, as well as the legal arguments presented by the dealer associations in their challenge and the FTC in defense.
