

Podcasts | March 25, 2025

DOJ Addresses AI in Corporate Compliance Programs

The Good Bot: Artificial Intelligence, Health Care, and the Law

SPEAKERS

Brett Ashton Mason | Michael S. Lowe | Callan G. Stein | Nicole S. Giffin

Join Troutman Pepper Locke Partner Brett Mason for a podcast series analyzing the intersection of artificial intelligence (AI), health care, and the law.

In this episode of The Good Bot, Brett Mason and attorneys Michael S. Lowe, Callan G. Stein, and Nicole S. Giffin discuss the Department of Justice's (DOJ) Evaluation of Corporate Compliance Programs, with a focus on recent updates related to AI. They highlight the DOJ's criteria for assessing compliance programs, including design, implementation, and results. Additionally, they emphasize the importance of risk management and human oversight in AI applications, and provide insights on the new administration's stance on AI and its potential impact on corporate compliance strategies.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Health Care + Life Sciences
- Artificial Intelligence