Alison Grounds, Antonio Avant, Katelyn Gillece, and Lindsey Mann will present eDiscovery 101. This program provides an introduction to the basic concepts of eDiscovery which occur throughout all phases of a litigation or investigation, including strategic planning and practice tips for each phase: preservation and the legal hold process, collection of client documents/data, written discovery considerations, protocols and privilege logs, document review and analysis (including technology assisted review), document production, format of production, and use of documents in depositions/motion and trial.

This course serves as a foundation for more detailed sessions on issues such as protecting privileges, managing document reviews, and negotiating ESI Protocols.
