Chris Jones, a partner in Troutman Pepper's Energy Industry Group, was quoted in the January 1, 2024 Law360 article, "Energy Cases to Watch in 2024."

The cases have "the potential to reshape administrative law in a big way," Chris Jones, who leads Troutman Pepper's federal energy practice, said. "That is one where the energy sector probably has a larger market share of appellate cases than it wishes it did."

...

"Any clarity on where the bounds of ALJ authority start and stop, and what the commission can lawfully delegate, could definitely change the way we do business at FERC," Jones of Troutman Pepper said.
