

Press Coverage | June 18, 2025

Fed. AI Moratorium Proposal May Undo State Insurance Regs

RELATED PROFESSIONALS

Paige D. Waters

Paige Waters, a partner in Troutman Pepper Locke’s Insurance Transactional + Regulatory Practice Group, was quoted in the June 18, 2025 Law360 article, “Fed. AI Moratorium Proposal May Undo State Insurance Regs.”

“The insurance regulators have taken this challenge of regulating AI seriously, and they have been promulgating guidance to address that,” said Paige Waters of Troutman Pepper Locke, who represents carriers.

...

The uncertainty over which state laws may be swept under the moratorium can also lead to litigation, Waters of Troutman told Law360.

“There would be a lot of litigation arising out of that and just uncertainty for the insurance industry in terms of how do they comply with the laws out there, and which statutes should they still be required to comply with,” she said.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Artificial Intelligence
- Insurance Transactional + Regulatory