The two-day event facilitates fundraising for some of the fastest growing companies in the Southeast by giving them the opportunity to present to and meet with venture capitalists and angel investors. The conference will offer networking opportunities, one-on-one meetings, incubator and accelerator programs, breakout panel discussions from industry leaders and keynote speakers. The event will also feature the 12th annual Statewide Collegiate Start-up Competition, which will include pitches from entrepreneurial students representing the state's top colleges and universities.
