

How Far Can You Reach? The Territorial Limits of Lanham Act Infringement and False Designation of Origin Claims

WRITTEN BY

Howard J. Shire | Sean P. McConnell

On June 29, 2023, the U.S. Supreme Court set new geographic limits for infringement and false designation of origin claims raised under Sections 1114 and 1125(a) of the Lanham Act. Given the global nature of business today, the decision highlights the need for trademark owners to continually reassess and, perhaps, expand their international trademark registration strategy as product lines and brands become more international in scope.

Click here to read the full article on Law Journal Newsletters.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Trademark + Copyright