

Press Coverage | August 20, 2025

In GI Bill Case Fallout, Veterans Sue VA Over Denied Education Benefit

Misha Tseytlin, a partner with Troutman Pepper Locke, was quoted in the August 20, 2025 Chicago Sun-Times article, “In GI Bill Case Fallout, Veterans Sue VA Over Denied Education Benefit.”

Chicago attorney Misha Tseytlin says the VA is “flouting” a recent Supreme Court decision that expanded GI Bill benefits and that this is hurting some of the country’s longest-serving veterans.

...

Chicago attorney Misha Tseytlin, of Troutman Pepper Locke and one of the attorneys representing the veterans, said the VA is “flouting” the Supreme Court’s decision and harming some of the longest-serving veterans.

“The VA’s mistreatment of our nation’s veterans exhibits a shocking disregard for the service that these brave men and women have given to our nation, and its attempt to evade the Supreme Court’s holding is an insult to the rule of law,” Tseytlin said.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Appellate + Supreme Court