Timothy McHugh, one of several dozen attorneys around the country who worked pro bono, said it’s a relief the VA dropped its stance.

“This is a huge step in the right direction,” said McHugh, a former Army paratrooper and Virginia attorney with the law firm Troutman Pepper Locke.

But McHugh and other lawyers said the fight isn’t over.

“The old rules are still on the books,” said attorney Mary Grace Metcalfe, of Troutman Pepper Locke, who called the VA’s turnabout a positive “first step.”
