Zach Torres-Fowler, a partner with Troutman Pepper, was quoted in the March 17, 2023 Law360 article, "Justices' Narrow Approach To Arbitration Likely To Continue."

"There's a bent within the court now — I don't know if it's that dissimilar from its previous approaches — but when it looks at these arbitration cases, it really tends to look at them quite narrowly," said Troutman Pepper partner R. Zachary Torres-Fowler. "They look at very specific issues, and they tend to apply a textual approach to how they render these decisions. ... That's going to carry over in 2023."
