James Stevens, co-leader of Troutman Pepper's Financial Services Industry Group, was quoted in the March 15, 2023 S&P Global Market Intelligence article, "Liquidity, Deposit Concentration Among Regulatory Targets After Bank Failures."

The potential for increased capital requirements "is certainly greater today than it was last week," according to James Stevens, partner and co-leader of Troutman Pepper Hamilton Sanders LLP's Financial Services Industry Group. But the most likely outcome, Stevens said, is that regulators will not put any new requirements in place and instead increase their scrutiny under existing procedures.
