(DALLAS) January 5, 2022 – Locke Lord’s Brad Weber, a Partner in the Firm’s Dallas office and Co-Chair of its Antitrust Practice Group, has been elected to serve as the 2022 Chair of the Dallas Bar Foundation (DBF), the charitable arm of the Dallas Bar Association (DBA).

As Chair, Weber will lead the DBF’s efforts to provide financial support through scholarships for law students and grants for community organizations that promote justice and maintain legal aid facilities for the indigent. He served as Vice Chair of the organization in 2021 and has served as a Trustee since 2015.

Weber has a rich history of service to local and state bar associations. He is a Past President of the DBA and has served as Chair of the organization’s Board of Directors and Finance Committee and Co-Chair of its Equal Access to Justice Campaign and Judiciary Committee, among other leadership roles. In addition, Weber is a former Director on the Board of the State Bar of Texas and previously served as Chair of its Antitrust and Business Litigation Section. He is also a Past President of the Dallas Association of Young Lawyers and a former Director on the Board of the Texas Young Lawyers Association.

Weber maintains a full-service antitrust practice with an emphasis on litigation, government investigations and antitrust compliance. His litigation cases have involved clients from a wide range of industries, including building products, travel services, energy, health care, medical devices, telecommunications, hotels and agriculture. He also has extensive experience representing clients in class actions and multidistrict litigation. In addition, Weber frequently represents clients in government antitrust investigations, enforcement actions and merger reviews with the Federal Trade Commission, U.S. Department of Justice’s Antitrust Division and numerous state antitrust enforcement agencies. He frequently speaks and writes on antitrust law enforcement, practice, policy and compliance and is a regular guest lecturer on antitrust and trade regulation at the Dedman School of Law at Southern Methodist University.
