Josh Kaplowitz will serve as a speaker at the Northeast Energy and Commerce Association (NECA) 2024 Renewable Energy Conference on March 7, 2024, in Boston, MA. Josh will join fellow industry leaders during the panel, How Offshore Wind Can Thrive, and speak to the challenges of (and solutions to) getting more offshore wind into our clean energy grid.

About Josh's panel:

With a couple of utility-scale offshore wind projects recently achieving first delivery of power to the transmission system, the NECA Conference will feature a panel that probes the challenges and solutions to ensuring the industry can build on this success. Participants will look at top down and bottom up strategies to facilitate clean energy deployment and adoption, and take a deeper dive into the future of interconnection and DER development.
