Josh Kaplowitz, counsel in Troutman Pepper Locke's Environmental + Natural Resources Practice Group, was quoted in the March 18, 2026 WorkBoat article, "Offshore Wind Advocates' Hopes Rise After Year Under Siege."

- The travails of offshore wind developers look like "a playbook for other administrations to attack energy technologies they don't like," said Josh Kaplowitz, formerly vice president for offshore wind at the American Clean Power Association.
- With the administration's repeated attacks on permitted projects, "the response here was predictable," Kaplowitz said. "All five developers went back to court."
- "The big lesson to be learned from this is, all the work that went into permitting these paid off," he added.
