In this episode of Payments Pros, Josh McBeain welcomes his colleague Andrew Thurmond to discuss residential solar projects as well as the financing and payment options that are available for these types of projects.

With renewable energy being a hot topic now, solar providers have multiple payment options to facilitate solar projects, including loans, retail installment contracts, leases, power purchase agreements, and tax credits. Josh and Andrew discuss these options and what to consider before developing solar payment programs for consumers.
