The key to success of a real estate development project in any industry is careful attention to every detail and phase, all of which have legal and financial consequences to developers and their teams. Attendees will leave with a sound understanding of the Pennsylvania-specific nuances in the real estate development process that are essential for a successful project.

This seminar is designed for lawyers, real estate developers and investors, real estate brokers, municipal officials, bankers, civil engineers, land surveyors, architects, and landscape architects.
