

Podcasts | June 5, 2025

Point-of-Sale Finance Series: The Great Debate of Loans vs. Credit Sales

The Consumer Finance Podcast

SPEAKERS

Chris J. Willis | Jason M. Cover | Taylor R. Gess

In this crossover episode of The Consumer Finance Podcast and Payments Pros, Chris Willis, Jason Cover, and Taylor Gess unravel the often-confused distinctions between loans and credit sales in the first installment of our Point-of-Sale Finance Series. This episode sheds light on the regulatory nuances that impact the delivery of financial products. From the historical backdrop of Retail Installment Sales Acts to the modern-day challenges of terminology, the conversation offers a comprehensive overview of the pros and cons of retail installment contracts and direct loans. Whether you're a seasoned professional or new to consumer finance, this discussion will enhance your understanding of these pivotal financial structures.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Consumer Financial Services