

Articles + Publications | June 13, 2022

Preparing Companies for a New Day in Multistate AG Investigations

WRITTEN BY

Ashley L. Taylor, Jr. | Stephen C. Piegrass | Ryan J. Strasser

Until the early 2000s, companies developing innovative business models or technologies could make reasoned predictions regarding how their innovations would be treated by government by analyzing the text of statutes and implementing regulations and interpreting case law, enabling them to make calculated decisions about how to proceed based on risk tolerance.

Read the full article at Thomson Reuters Westlaw

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- State Attorneys General