Troutman Pepper Partner Vaughn Morrison was featured and quoted in the Law360 article, "Rising Star: Troutman Pepper's Vaughn Morrison."

When asked what motivates him, Vaughn said "challenging problems in the renewable energy industrial power world. He noted that for any particular facility or project, the whole thing has contracts undergirding how they run, how they're built and over every little detail. He enjoys digging into those details, which begin way before shovels ever hit the dirt."

The contracts constitute a layered and complex system, he said, adding, "What you have is a pretty complex machine, and I enjoy really delving into that logic problem and solving issues through that framework."

"And then I just like my clients. That's another part of it. My clients are smart. A lot of us are passionate about the industry, and we have a lot of fun doing it," he continued.
