Troutman Pepper Associate Brett Tarver will be a speaking on the panel “What Can and Should Jurors Consider When Awarding Damages?” during the Sixteenth Annual Judicial Symposium on Civil Justice Issues, on Monday, October 10 at 12:15 p.m., at George Mason University Antonin Scalia Law School, in Arlington, VA. The civil justice system in the United States is in a constant state of flux. Changes occur at both the state and federal levels, through both legislative and judicial actions. At the same time, judges face a constant barrage of new and innovative legal theories and procedural maneuvers. The Law & Economics Center’s annual Judicial Symposium on Civil Justice Issues aims to help judges make sense of America’s rapidly changing civil justice environment.
