Troutman Pepper Locke Attorneys Dave Navetta, Gene Fishel, and Dan Waltz will be participating in an upcoming CLE with myLawCLE discussing the evolving landscape of data privacy regulation across the United States. This panel discussion will offer an in-depth analysis of state-level data privacy laws, with a focus on pioneering regulations such as California's Consumer Privacy Act and Virginia's Consumer Data Protection Act, along with other notable state-specific legislative measures. Our panelists will navigate the complexities of these laws, emphasizing key differences and similarities that affect both businesses and consumers.

Additionally, the panel will examine how state attorneys general prioritize privacy enforcement actions and influence recent regulatory litigation trends. This discussion will provide a clearer picture of the current regulatory environment and practical insights into compliance strategies and risk management.

Key topics to be discussed:

- State-level data privacy laws
- Attorney general enforcement actions
- Complexities and impacts on businesses and consumers

The webinar is complimentary for Troutman Pepper Locke clients and contacts.
