

Podcasts | July 1, 2021

Supplemental Examination: A Tool Worth Further Consideration

Patents: Post-Grant Podcast

SPEAKERS

Megan T. O'Gara | Maia H. Harris

Please join Troutman Pepper's Intellectual Property and Health Sciences practice groups for the second installment of their podcast series on strategy, trends, and other happenings at the PTAB.

Moderated by Troutman Pepper Partner Maia Harris, this episode features Troutman Pepper Partner Michael L. Goldman and Associate Megan Thisse O'Gara who discuss the basics of supplemental examinations and provide insights for patent owners considering this option. Our speakers also cover the use of supplemental examination to dispose of validity challenges or duty of candor concerns, why a patent owner might file a supplemental examination, timing considerations, and what happens if reexamination is the next step.

Be on the lookout for our next episode of this podcast series, which will examine IP time bars and real parties in interest.

Listen to the first installment of this podcast series, "IPR Institution and Early Intervention."

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Health Care + Life Sciences
- Health Care + Life Sciences Intellectual Property
- Intellectual Property
- Post-Grant Patent Review