Misha Tseytlin, leader of Troutman Pepper’s Appellate + Supreme Court Practice Group, was quoted in the June 28, 2024 The Business Journals: The Playbook article, “Supreme Court Issues ‘Seismic Shift’ on Federal Rules. Here’s What That Means for Businesses.”

Misha Tseytlin, a partner at law firm Troutman Pepper, said the Chevron framework was a “lodestar” of administrative law. Now, agencies will ultimately be locked into a single interpretation once a court decides what that is.

“It is a seismic shift in administrative law,” Tseytlin said. “It will change agency incentives about how rulemaking is done.”
