Thursday, September 29 • 4:00 – 7:00 p.m. ET

We would like to invite you to attend a live cybersecurity tabletop exercise with the Avertium and Troutman Pepper team where we will be walking through a mock Business Email Compromise (BEC) scam. In our scenario, an employee in the accounting department receives an email from a vendor requesting payment and providing new wire instructions. After payment was made using the new wire instructions – the organization realized it had been scammed.

Join us as we walk through the organization's response to the incident through role-playing and facilitated discussions. This presentation is essential for any one looking to improve its preparedness and response to data security incidents.
