ATLANTA – Long-time Troutman Pepper client GreenSky, Inc. (NASDAQ: GSKY) has agreed to be acquired by The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. in an all-stock transaction valued at approximately $2.24 billion. GreenSky is the largest fintech platform for home improvement consumer loan originations. Read a company press release about the deal.

Troutman Pepper began advising the Atlanta-based GreenSky more than a decade ago when GreenSky had fewer than 15 employees. Today it has over 1,100 employees and a growing network of over 10,000 merchants that use the platform to provide frictionless promotional payment options to consumers, driving increased sales volume, and accelerated cash flow.

In 2018, Troutman Pepper guided GreenSky in what at the time was the largest fintech IPO of the year. The IPO was a rare example of a 100 percent “secondary” offering, in which all of the proceeds went to investors. In most cases, the primary purpose of the IPO is to raise capital for the issuer. The transaction also involved a complex “Up-C” structure, in which common stock was offered by a newly-formed holding company – the “C up above a partnership” – in order to preserve partnership tax treatment for continuing investors.

The acquisition by Goldman Sachs, which is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2021 or first quarter of 2022, will enhance the global financial institution’s ability to provide consumers with the opportunity to save, spend, borrow and invest, and meet customers where they transact. Since its founding, GreenSky has provided simple and transparent home improvement financing solutions for approximately four million customers.

The Troutman Pepper team advising GreenSky was led by corporate partners Brinkley Dickerson and Paul Fancher. Tax advice was provided by Robert Friedman, Joan Arnold, and Joel Post. Jim Earle provided benefits advice.
