CANNABIS RESCHEDULING: ALJ CANCELS UPCOMING HEARINGS ON PROPOSED RULEMAKING

By Jean Smith-Gonnell, Zie Alere, and Nick Ramos

Hearings on the merits of the Drug Enforcement Agency's (DEA) proposed cannabis rescheduling, initially set to begin this month, have been cancelled. The preliminary hearing period has been littered with accusations that the DEA improperly excluded certain parties from participating, that the DEA itself does not adequately support rescheduling, and that the DEA engaged in improper ex parte communications with anti-rescheduling parties.

FEDERAL APPEALS COURT DEALS ANOTHER BLOW TO INTOXICATING HEMP PRODUCTS IN VIRGINIA

By Jean Smith-Gonnell, Agustin Rodriguez, and Michael Jordan

On January 7, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit found that Virginia's hemp product restrictions do not violate federal law. The ruling is the latest defeat for the Virginia hemp industry's efforts to overturn Virginia S.B. 903, a law intended to prohibit the sale of intoxicating hemp products like delta-8 and delta-10 tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) gummies and beverages in the Commonwealth.
