ROCHESTER, N.Y. – Andrew Zappia, the practice group leader for the firm's Health Sciences Intellectual Property team, has been named to The Daily Record's Power List for Intellectual Property 2023. The list recognizes leading lawyers who have made significant contributions to intellectual property law. Read a Q&A with Zappia.

Honorees are celebrated for guiding clients through stressful and uncertain times to keep their portfolios on solid footing. The 15 attorneys named to the list also are recognized for their ability to navigate new ways of doing business thanks to changes in work environments, labor forces, supply chains, and more.

Zappia has a long track record of finding innovative solutions for dispute and licensing challenges for a wide range of technology companies in the chemical, biotech, and information technology industries. He advises clients on a wide array of matters including intellectual property disputes and licensing, joint development, and commercial transactions. His patent dispute practice focuses on inter partes review (IPR) proceedings before the PTAB, trials and arbitrations relating to pharmaceuticals, biologics, medical devices, mechanical inventions, and software.

Troutman Pepper's nationally recognized Intellectual Property Practice Group provides the complete range of services for patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets, and assists clients with litigation and dispute resolution, licensing, and other transactions. Clients include startups, Fortune 100 companies, academic and research institutes, business incubators, and technology companies in a wide range of industries.
