NEW YORK – Andrew P. Zappia, Troutman Pepper's Rochester office managing partner and a member of the firm's Intellectual Property and Health Sciences Intellectual Property Practice Groups, has been recognized on The Daily Record's Power 20 Intellectual Property 2022 list, which recognizes top IP lawyers in Western New York.

According to the publication, "The people on this list help make sure their clients' inventions, writing, music, designs and other works are protected. At a time when innovative ideas are more important than ever, these lawyers have guided clients through stressful and uncertain times to keep their portfolios on solid footing. And they have done so while navigating new ways of doing business thanks to changes in work environments, labor forces, supply chains and more."

Zappia has a long track record of finding innovative solutions for dispute and licensing challenges for a wide range of technology companies in the chemical, biotech, and information technology industries. He represents a wide variety of technology companies in intellectual property disputes and licensing, joint development, and commercial transactions, including trials and arbitrations relating to pharmaceuticals, biologics, medical devices, mechanical inventions, and software.

Troutman Pepper's Intellectual Property Practice Group consists of a nationally ranked team of attorneys, patent agents, and other professionals and provides counsel on the development, acquisition, management, and monetization of a company's most important assets. Clients range from first-time inventors to multinational industry leaders.
