LOS ANGELES/NEW YORK – Troutman Pepper Partner John Leonti, a leader in the firm's Capital Projects + Infrastructure Practice Group, has been selected to serve on Law360's Project Finance Editorial Advisory Board for a ninth consecutive year. The advisory board provides feedback on Law360's coverage and expert insight on how to best shape future coverage.

"It's an honor to be selected to serve on Law360's Project Finance Editorial Advisory Board for a ninth year," Leonti said. "This industry is continually shifting, and I am excited to continue collaborating with the editorial team and my fellow board members to ensure Law360 has the latest and most relevant information."

Leonti helps clients structure, negotiate, document and execute complex financial transactions in the energy sector, including tax equity transactions utilizing partnership and lease structures, debt transactions (such as construction financing and long-term commercial and institutional debt financing) and hedge transactions using over-the-counter derivatives (including physical and financial renewable energy hedges). He has acted as counsel to major utilities and their competitive subsidiaries, tax equity investors, independent power producers, renewable energy developers, lenders, investment banks, private investment funds, and power marketers.

From high-stakes, transformative deals to smaller investments, Troutman Pepper's nationally recognized Capital Projects + Infrastructure Practice Group facilitates projects for investors, utilities, sponsors, private investment funds, lenders, developers, and other stakeholders. The team's pragmatic and comprehensive approach helps clients identify, nurture, and manage bankable ventures.
