NEW YORK – Troutman Pepper's market-leading financial services team has launched The Consumer Finance Podcast, providing reliable, insightful, and entertaining industry-specific content. In the weekly podcast, which will be available every Thursday beginning today, consumer financial services experts, insiders, and Troutman Pepper attorneys deliver easily digestible segments on a variety of topics.

"We are excited to debut The Consumer Finance Podcast. Our plan is to share key knowledge and insights, to keep our listeners up to date on industry events, and to discuss what we think are the important issues facing the consumer financial services marketplace," said Chris Willis, who is co-leader of Troutman Pepper's Consumer Financial Services Regulatory practice and host of The Consumer Finance Podcast.

"This format allows us to provide highly desirable content via a media that many prefer due to its ease of use," added Partner Mike Lacy, who leads the firm's Consumer Financial Services Practice Group. "We are continuously looking for new ways to deliver value to clients and to demonstrate the breadth and depth of our practice, capabilities, and industry knowledge. This podcast does that in a way that is incredibly useful to the listener."

The first podcast episode, released today, explores ADA website accessibility – both regulatory developments and litigation – with Troutman Pepper Partner Lori Sommerfield. Future episodes will cover FCRA litigation, FinTech, cryptocurrency, and more. Listeners can tune in and subscribe wherever they get their podcasts.

Troutman Pepper has more than 200 attorneys who regularly advise financial services providers and is nationally recognized for its prowess in the space. A two-time winner of Law360's Consumer Protection Practice Group of the Year award, Troutman Pepper's Consumer Financial Services team helps clients resolve litigation, provides regulatory guidance, and assists with investigations and actions initiated by federal and state government agencies. In 2021, Troutman Pepper was named FinTech Law Firm of the Year by The Deal, becoming the first firm to receive the award.
