

Podcasts | December 8, 2022

What Is Mass Arbitration and How Should Companies Protect Themselves?

The Consumer Finance Podcast

SPEAKERS

Chris J. Willis | Jeremy T. Rosenblum

Please join Consumer Financial Services Partner Chris Willis and his colleagues Jeremy Rosenblum and Tony Kaye as they discuss the phenomenon of mass arbitrations, which pose increasing risk to the consumer finance industry. The partners use their knowledge to explain what mass arbitration is and describe prophylactic measures companies should take.

Jeremy is a partner in the Consumer Financial Services Practice Group, with nearly four decades of experience representing the financial services industry. He focuses his practice on federal and state lending and consumer practice laws.

Tony is also a partner in the Consumer Financial Services Practice Group. He counsels financial services providers on compliance issues and has significant experience defending clients in individual and class action lawsuits filed by consumers.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Consumer Financial Services
- Enforcement Actions + Investigations
- Federal Trade Commission \(FTC\)