

Press Coverage | April 17, 2024

Wisconsin Supreme Court Justices Question How Much Power Legislature Should Have

RELATED PROFESSIONALS

Misha Tseytlin

Misha Tseytlin, a partner with Troutman Pepper, was quoted in the April 17, 2024 Associate Press article, “Wisconsin Supreme Court Justices Question How Much Power Legislature Should Have.”

Siding with Evers would “overturn how our state government has functioned for almost a century,” Misha Tseytlin, a lawyer for the Legislature, told the court.

If the court sides with Evers, then numerous other functions of the budget committee, the state building commission and other legislative committees that have been in place for a century would also be unconstitutional, Tseytlin said.

RELATED INDUSTRIES + PRACTICES

- Appellate + Supreme Court