Brandan brings a pragmatic approach to complex litigation, cybersecurity, and data privacy, as well as national counsel roles in high-stakes opioid litigation and defense verdicts in multimillion-dollar investor disputes.

OVERVIEW

Brandan is committed to delivering responsive and practical counsel to clients across a diverse range of litigation matters, and responses to government and regulatory investigations and inquiries. He represents clients in various industries, including pharmaceuticals, health care, banking and finance, construction, insurance, professional services, real estate, and technology.

Brandan's litigation experience spans from representing Fortune 500 companies in high-stakes litigation to coordinating responses to non-party subpoenas for local businesses. He aims to help secure resolutions that align with his clients' business goals, whether through principled defense at trial or amicable pre-suit resolution.

Brandan also provides strategic guidance and response coordination following significant data incidents, leveraging the firm's resources and relationships with vendors in consulting, forensics, public relations, and consumer services.
