OVERVIEW

Caroline represents clients in a range of commercial matters, providing legal counsel on business contracts, qui tam cases, antitrust matters, compliance issues, banking relationships, and product liability disputes. She brings notable experience in financial services litigation, focusing on fair lending compliance and issues related to mortgage origination, servicing, affirmative marketing, and compliance. Caroline regularly assists clients in responding to regulatory complaints and navigating the complexities of federal investigations, helping them to remain compliant with regulatory standards.

Caroline works closely with clients to assess risk, identify key objectives, and implement effective strategies to help her clients achieve their goals efficiently. She offers a pragmatic approach to problem-solving and can provide critical advice on contract negotiations or decisions related to business practices or structures. Caroline has experience in all phases of litigation, including summary judgment, motion practice, discovery management, and pre-trial and trial preparation in state and federal courts.
