Daniel handles sophisticated equity and debt transactions for clients investing in real estate. His long track record on both sides of transactions is an asset to clients seeking to maximize their key investments.

OVERVIEW

Daniel represents clients in real estate joint ventures, mortgage and mezzanine financing, preferred equity arrangements, and acquisitions and dispositions. He works with investors, sponsors, lenders, and borrowers, including global institutional investors, publicly traded companies, and closely held entities.

Throughout his career, Daniel has successfully managed significant transactions across various positions in the capital stack. He has played a key role in major deals involving single and multifamily housing projects, landmark hotels, retail portfolios, office towers, and mixed-use developments, including the largest private mixed-use project in U.S. history. Daniel is experienced handling transactions in New York and across the U.S., including representing non-U.S. investors in their U.S. investments.
