OVERVIEW

Dascher provides strategic counsel and representation to clients navigating regulatory compliance, enforcement, and high-stakes litigation. She regularly represents clients in both single and multistate state attorney general (AG) investigations and enforcement actions, as well as before other state enforcement bodies and local government agencies.

Dascher has extensive experience across diverse industries, including residential solar energy, medical technology, asset management, automotive manufacturing, cloud software, and consumer protection, representing clients in complex litigation, regulatory investigations, and multistate actions involving deceptive business practices, manufacturing defects, data breaches, and trade secrets.

Dascher regularly provides ongoing commentary and analysis on developments in the state and federal regulatory landscape through the firm's Regulatory Oversight Blog and newsletter and Cannabis Communications Newsletter.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

State Attorneys General

- Representing a residential solar energy company in an action brought by the Kentucky and Tennessee attorneys general offices related to alleged deceptive business practices in the sales and installation of solar energy systems. The attorneys general also sued our client under novel theories attempting to hold our client liable for the installer's misconduct.
- Represented a large multinational medical technology company in a litigation brought by the New Mexico attorney general related to the company's sales and marketing practices regarding its allegedly inferior vena cava (IVC) filters, one of four actions brought by the State of New Mexico against the broader IVC Filter industry.
- Representing an asset management firm in a nineteen-state investigation and consumer protection litigation related to the business model of a company in which our client has invested.
- Successfully resolved an investigation by forty-five states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and the Northern Mariana Islands, of a national automobile manufacturer relating to alleged manufacturing defects.
- Represented a publicly traded company recognized as the world's leading cloud software provider, in a multistate investigation, as well as subsequent matters related to FTC, HHS and SEC investigations, stemming from a data breach

Local Government Law

- Represented a local government body in a lawsuit concerning a contract for the provision of wastewater services.
- Representing a local government entity opposing increase in toll rates.
- Represented Alleghany County and Covington City in the successful merger of their two school districts.

Complex Commercial Litigation and Class Action Litigation

- Successfully obtained the dismissal of an 11-count complaint for a residential solar company related to trade secrets and regulatory matters, including claims of unfair business practices and competition.
- Served as the primary associate and organized litigation strategy in tandem with regulatory strategy for 30 class action lawsuits brought simultaneously with regulatory investigations.
