OVERVIEW

Elliot is the knowledge management attorney for the Corporate and Private Equity practices, where he helps develop the firm's overarching knowledge management mission via direct practice group engagement.

Before joining the firm, Elliot practiced as a regulatory attorney at a large national bank. Previously, Elliot was an associate in the investment funds group of a large international law firm, advising clients on all aspects of fund and investment advisory operations, including representing U.S. and foreign investment companies and advisers, as well as handling high-profile corporate transactions involving asset management businesses.

Before becoming an attorney, Elliot served as a surface warfare officer in the U.S. Navy and was deployed overseas twice between 2010 and 2014.
