Ethan advises on all types of corporate transactions, as well as in general corporate matters, from business formation through exit.

OVERVIEW

Ethan focuses his practice on both mergers and acquisitions, as well as on the general corporate representation of U.S. and foreign companies. He works with various technology and medical device companies in matters from formation to exit, such as: choice of entity; corporate governance; licensing; contract negotiation; private equity and venture capital transactions; mergers and acquisitions; buy-sell agreements; and shareholder disputes. He also frequently represents sellers and buyers in acquisitions across a range of industries, including information technology and life sciences, and he represents investors and companies seeking investment.
